

Al Brown is one of New Zealand's most well-known chefs. He has appeared on Australia's MasterChef, a popular cooking show in this corner of the globe. In fact, it is Australia's highest ranking non-sporting program of all time

Most chefs are famous for a 'signature dish,' the one dish they hang their hat on to be the best dish in their restaurants.

At Al's former restaurant, Logan Brown, the 'signature dish' was (and in fact still is) Paua (abalone) Ravioli. Having sampled it several times I would have to agree. It is out of this world. When washed down with a Cloudy Bay Sauvignon Blanc, it might send you over the edge.

So, what does this have to do with sales /or small business?

In every business there is a 'signature dish,' something that makes that business unique over others. It is the one thing that sets them high above their competitors.

Have you asked yourself, "What is my signature dish?" What is the one promotion, one advertising plan, or one idea that you have used time and time again with the most success? What promotion, idea, program or plan has your media company used with great success?

At NRS Media, our 'signature dishes' are the Image Plus and Impact Plus programs. These 'dishes' sold millions of dollars for media companies all over the world.
